APPEAL FOR A FAIR DEAL

MP makes urgent call on parliament for decent school funding

By Lucy Purdy

A BATTLE to reverse unfair funding for Haringey's pupils was taken to the top last week with a fierce parliamentary debate on the issue.

Hornsey and Wood Green MP Lynne Featherstone urged the Government to immediately reconsider the situation which means that Haringey teachers get paid inner-city wages while the schools receive funding as if they were in an outer London borough. They get about £1,000 less per pupil than in neighbouring boroughs such as Camden and Hackney.

Since the current funding arrangement was introduced last year, Haringey is on course to lose more than £120million in funding by 2011 compared to Hackney – a staggering £110,000 a day.

Fairer funding would mean about an extra £39million a year for the borough – the equivalent of 15 more teachers in each of Haringey's 66 schools – and could make an "incredible difference" to pupils, according to Ms Featherstone.

"Haringey schools don't receive funding that reflects their needs and that's having an impact on children's education in both the east and west of the borough," she told parliament last Wednesday.

"Our teachers have achieved a fantastic amount in raising standards and they are to be applauded for their achievement in the face of such funding adversity. They rightly deserve inner-London pay scales and they work miracles against one of the most difficult, demanding backdrops.

"Nevertheless, Haringey performs significantly below the national average. I've no doubt that gap could be narrowed by our brilliant teachers if the funding gap were reduced."

Teachers, school governors, councillors and parents accompanied Ms Featherstone to Westminster last Wednesday to throw their weight behind her plea. Susan Moyse, chairwoman of governors at Earlsmead Primary School in Tottenham, said: "The wards we serve are among the most deprived in the country, with high unemployment, poor housing, temporary accommodation and unusually high levels of population transience.

"We're rightly proud of the achievements of our pupils and staff but we could offer so much more to these young people and their families if we had fair funding."

Another governor from Rokesly Infant School, in Hermiton Avenue, Hornsey, added: "If Haringey was fairly funded, our school could afford to provide more books, more equipment, more computers, our classrooms wouldn't leak when it rains – the list is endless."

Years of underinvestment have left a third of the borough's schools poised to plunge into the red by the end of the year as they are ever-more squeezed into deficits. The borough has the second-highest proportion of schools with financial problems in the country.

Ms Featherstone said she had previously brought the matter to the attention of the Prime Minister before the most recent funding review, when Haringey pupils were, on average, only £736 adrift.

She urged Department for Children, Schools and Families secretary Diana Johnson MP to make a crisis payment for 2010/11 so schools did not have to wait until the long-awaited school funding review in 2011.

Tottenham MP David Lammy, the higher education minister, backed Ms Featherstone's call but both were disappointed by Ms Johnson's response. She acknowledged "time is ticking by" but admitted she was not in a position to provide extra funding before the review.

Tony Brockman, Haringey NUT branch secretary, who has been co-ordinating the Fair Deal for Haringey Children campaign, said: "Although the government debate was disappointing, it's good news David Lammy has secured a meeting with ministers where we can press the case."

Ms Featherstone said: "This isn't about politics, but simple fairness. I'll continue to fight until our schools get a fair share."

Teen rapist jailed for seven years

A PREDATORY paedophile who preyed on young boys in Haringey and Hackney has been jailed for seven-and-a-half years.

Wayne Courtney pleaded guilty to raping two young boys when he appeared at Wood Green Crown Court on October 5. Courtney attacked one boy under 13 and another younger than 16, beginning the abuse when he was only 12 himself.

Courtney, now 29, of Forest Road, Walthamstow, was jailed on Friday as well as being given an indeterminate public protection order after admitting the abuse at homes in Haringey and Hackney. He will only be considered for release when a parole board decides he no longer poses a risk.

Hywel Ebsworth, who investigated the offences on behalf of the Crown Prosecution Service, said: "Thanks to the courage of the victims in making statements, we were able to put together a strong case and bring the perpetrator to justice."

The first victim was assaulted between August 2007 and December 2007 at an address in Hornsey.

When police investigated this attack, it came to light that a second victim had also been assaulted by Courtney between 1993 and 1998.

Not enough volunteers for Sunday rail service

RAIL passengers using First Capital Connect services in Haringey had their journeys disrupted on Sunday due to a shortage of drivers.

People travelling into King's Cross and Finsbury Park via Alexandra Palace, Hornsey and Harringay found Great Northern trains were cancelled and were forced to find alternative routes.

A First Capital Connect spokesman said: "Following the start of pay talks, a number of drivers have withdrawn from working restdays and overtime, which they're not obliged to do, and we were left with a minimal service. We were left with no option but to run a greatly reduced service on Sunday."

The company is awaiting the result of a pay offer made to drivers' trade unions.

Crowds come out to pay respects to war dead on Remembrance Sunday

ANNE-MARIE SANDERSON

Watching brief: Members of the Met Police paid respects during the service

FALLEN heroes who have died in overseas conflicts since 1914 were honoured during services of remembrance on Sunday.

Sombre crowds, including war veterans who paid their respects to fallen comrades, gathered on Remembrance Sunday at ceremonies in Wood Green, Tottenham and Hornsey.

The mayor of Haringey Councillor Bernice

Vanier joined throngs of people for a service at Wood Green War Memorial, in High Road, Wood Green, while deputy mayor Councillor Eddie Griffith attended another service at the same time at Tottenham War Memorial, in Town Hall Approach Road.

As part of each service, a two-minute silence was held at 11am to coincide with similar events at services and in public places, including shops and bars, around the country.

Ms Vanier said: "Remembrance Sunday is a chance for everyone in Haringey to pay their thanks and respects to the many brave men and women who have given their lives for their country – in two world wars as well as in more recent conflicts and those continuing today."

Moment to remember: Mayor of Haringey Bernice Vanier lays the first wreath at Wood Green War Memorial on Sunday morning

Primark slammed at opening of its

By Lucy Purdy

BARGAIN-HUNTERS' paradise Primark will open a new store in Wood Green tomorrow – amid protests from a human rights charity that the chain is “abusing” overseas workers.

But it will create 325 new jobs and sell affordable, fashionable clothes in Haringey, where many families are struggling to make ends meet.

From £10 dresses which rival top catwalk creations to handbags in every shade of the rainbow, the store dubbed “Primarni” has gone from strength to strength since its founding 40 years ago. It reported a 20 per cent rise in sales to £2.3 billion last year, outstripping such high-street stalwarts as Marks and Spencer, and is now considering selling clothes online too.

But such success has come at a terrible cost, according to charity War On Want, which has waged a long campaign against Primark. Demonstrators will protest against the new store tomorrow, saying the two-floor, 54,000sq ft shop on the former site of the Pearsons department store in Shopping City is at the expense of workers in Bangladesh earning as little as 7p an hour.

War On Want campaigner Seb Klier described the working conditions of Primark workers in the Bangladeshi capital, Dhaka. “The vast majority of employees live in small, crowded shacks, many of which lack plumbing and adequate washing facilities,” he said.

“By the end of the year, Primark will have grown to almost 200 stores in five countries. But for many Bangladeshis producing its clothes, their grim living standards are falling even lower as costs rise.

“It is high time regulation was introduced to stop this abuse.”

Thousands of people have signed up to the Love Fashion Hate Sweatshops campaign, demanding Gordon Brown does more to regulate the industry. The push has the endorsement of celebrities including former Tottenham resident, presenter and playwright Kwame Kwei-Armah.

Primark first hit the headlines in 2008 when undercover reporters for BBC's Panorama exposed child labour in the company's supply chain in Tirupur, India. They found women and young children sewing sequins on to Primark garments in small, cramped rooms for little pay.

But Primark claims it has since made great strides on ethical issues. The company, which is owned by Associated British Foods, says it is being unfairly targeted by War On Want and has issued a three-page rebuttal to their claims.

A Primark spokesman said some of their factories already meet the “highest ethical standards” but admitted others needed work.

He said: “Primark believes ethical business practices are of the highest importance and that is why we work tirelessly with our suppliers and stakeholders to raise standards and ensure the welfare of the workers who depend on the orders placed at these factories.”

He added: “Primark believes that by sourcing substantial orders from developing countries, the company is helping generate jobs in those countries which would not otherwise be available, particularly for women.”

Haringey is the fifth most deprived area of London with many wrestling unemployment and soaring bills. Primark has based its success on offering latest fashions at bargain prices – just £6 for an “it” bag said to be inspired by a £700 Chanel design, for example. There are already many charity shops in Wood Green as well as a Matalan clearance shop just down the road from Shopping City – so there is obviously a thirst for cut-price fashions among residents.

Time will tell whether shoppers will vote with their wallets.

Low price of fashion: Primark sells outfits at a fraction of the price of big-name retailers

Police praised for dealing with rape

By Lucy Purdy

HARINGEY police have been singled out for praise in a new report into the spiralling problem of gang rape in London.

The force was named as an example of good practice for its handling of a brutal gang rape in Tottenham in 2008, in which a 16-year-old girl with a mental age of eight was repeatedly raped by three men.

Then, after this ordeal was over, they threw caustic soda over her, causing 50 per cent burns to her body and disfiguring her for life.

Scotland Yard has launched a probe into the way gang rapes are investigated after a report released this week by the Metropolitan Police Authority noted an alarming increase in the number of these type of attacks – 43 gang rapes last year compared with 36 in 2003/4.

It also found that victims are getting younger, with nearly two thirds attacked before reaching their 20th birthday.

In 1998/99, just 48 per cent of victims were 19 or younger, according to the report compiled by a senior detective from the Yard's Sapphire team, which investigates sex crimes.

Rogel McMorris, aged 18 at the time, and Jason Brew, aged 19 at the time, from Tottenham, and Hector Muaimba, who was 20, from Walthamstow, were jailed for their roles in the caustic soda attack which a detective called "the worst rape case Haringey police have ever had to deal with".

The girl was lured to a derelict building in Antill Road on January 9 2008 and repeatedly raped by the evil trio. McMorris then threw acid over her body, condemning her to a life of medical treatment, flashbacks, depression and psychiatric treatment.

In a statement read out at the court, the girl, who cannot be named, said:

"I have tried to forgive them for what they have done but it is so hard. I hope one day they will feel sorry for what they did to me."

McMorris was jailed for nine years, Brew for six and Muaimba eight.

The "unduly lenient" sentences given to McMorris and Brew were later increased to 14 years and nine years.

Haringey's Sapphire team was praised for giving the girl "the highest level of service" and for successfully bringing the men to trial, despite coming up against a lack of co-operation from the community.

Now there's a nice surprise

Do you get interest on a bank or building society account? If you do and your income is less than a certain amount each year, you may have paid tax that you didn't need to pay.

Check the amounts shown in the table and if you think you might be eligible for Tax Back, find out more at hmrc.gov.uk/taxback or call the helpline on 0845 366 7850.

PENSIONERS MAY NOT HAVE TO PAY TAX ON THEIR SAVINGS

It's always nice to receive extra money that you weren't expecting, so it's worth knowing that many pensioners could be paying more tax than they need to.

Banks and building societies automatically deduct 20 per cent tax from savings interest. So if you are a non-taxpayer or should only be paying the 10p savings rate, you might be overpaying tax and may be due a repayment.

Every year you are allowed to have a certain amount of money coming in before you need to pay any tax. This is called your 'tax-free allowance' or 'personal allowance'. People under 65 who live in the UK can receive at least £6,035 a year tax free and those over 65 can receive at least £9,030 tax free. So if your income is below your tax free allowance and you have some money in a bank or building society you might be paying tax on your interest when you don't need to.

All you have to do is check whether your income is below your tax-free allowances or whether you should be paying the 10p savings rate. If the answer to either question is "yes", you should complete a straight forward claim form, called an R40, and send it to Her Majesty's Revenue and Customs' (HMRC) Freepost address. HMRC will then pay you back any tax you have overpaid.

Furthermore, if you don't need to pay tax, you can 'register' so that tax won't be deducted from the interest on your savings in the future. All you need to do is complete a simple form R85 and then give it to your bank or building society. Once you have filled in the R85 you will not need to apply to HMRC to get your tax back in future.

HMRC is keen to make sure that no pensioners pay tax if they don't need to. If it doesn't affect you, but you know someone it might – spread the word.

If in doubt, or for more help and advice, please visit the web page www.hmrc.gov.uk/taxback or call HM Revenue & Customs on 0845 366 7850 for help (your call will be charged at local rates). Frequently asked questions can also be found at www.hmrc.gov.uk/taxback.

Ally Pally is winner in Olympic badge vote

ALEXANDRA PALACE has been chosen as the face of Haringey to appear on a pin badge celebrating the London 2012 Olympics.

It will appear on one of the 33 Olympic badges – one for each borough – after residents voted the historic palace their favourite local landmark ahead of Bruce Castle and Hornsey Town Hall.

Councillor Brian Haley, cabinet member for environment and conservation, said: "All three buildings were great contenders but Alexandra Palace is a truly iconic landmark and is well-loved by people in Haringey."

"We look forward to seeing the palace take its place among some of the finest landmarks in London when the pin badges go on sale next year."

Tennis ace James serves up a treat for youngsters

Children make a racquet for star of the court

By Lucy Purdy

ONE of the country's most promising tennis players served up a slice of inspiration in Tottenham last Friday in a bid to encourage children of all backgrounds into the sport.

British number three James Ward visited Lea Valley Primary School, in Somerford Grove, as part of a programme to encourage a new generation into the sport, following the success of James' international colleague Andy Murray, who has reached number two in the world.

As well as bringing along 30 new rackets for the school, James practised rallies with pupils and demonstrated a new interactive tennis lesson DVD for teachers to use in classes.

The school's head of PE, Paul Cogan, 24, said James' visit had gone down a storm with pupils.

"James played rallies with every single child, which was brilliant – the kids loved it," he said. "I like tennis but, for other teachers who perhaps don't feel as confident teaching it, the interactive lessons are great."

"We're just teachers not professionals and don't necessarily have time to research every sport we do in detail, but this means kids that can be taught by one of the top sports stars in the country."

James, 22, who achieved a career high ranking of 187 this year, visited Haringey as part of a nationwide launch of the AEGON schools tennis strategy, which has the backing of the Lawn Tennis Association.

"I got to meet James Ward and play tennis against him," said eight-year-old Asha Clarke.

"He's played at Wimbledon so he's really good. He helped us with our forehands and everybody got to play against him."

"We were all cheering loudly – it was a lot of fun."

Some 700 youngsters from Tottenham have registered with the White Hart Lane Tennis Club since it was set up in 2007.

Paul Regan, head of education at the Tennis Foundation, said: "One of the biggest perceptions of tennis is that it is a white, middle-class sport that is played in the suburbs. Of the 700 who have registered, 60 per cent are girls and 90 per cent are from ethnic backgrounds."

"That's exactly the kind of thing we want to see more of."

For more information about White Hart Lane Tennis Club, call head coach Siwan Stephens on 07890 616191.

Medical staff first for swine flu jabs

By Lucy Purdy

VACCINATIONS against swine flu began in Haringey last week, with essential medical workers first in line for the jab.

Pregnant women, people with damaged immune systems and those at risk of becoming seriously ill with seasonal flu are also being classed as "priority patients" and will be contacted once their GPs get the vaccines.

Four of NHS Haringey's healthcare managers, who work with vulnerable children, were the first in the borough to receive the vaccine last week.

Community nurse manager Frances Rourke said: "Our frontline health carers are being vaccinated first to allow them to safely work with vulnerable patients and community members. This is part of our pandemic flu plans to ensure crucial services are not affected."

At-risk patients may not be contacted for another two or three weeks before the vaccines are sent out to GPs but are being urged to wait until they are contacted. They should only arrange an appointment if they have not heard from their GPs within six weeks.

Although vaccination against swine flu is not compulsory, people in high-risk groups are being strongly advised to have the vaccination when offered it.

One version of the vaccine, made by pharmaceutical giant GlaxoSmithKline, is made using chicken eggs and therefore is not suitable for people with egg allergies.

Anyone worried about swine flu should visit www.nhs.uk for further information.

Morality madness lock, stock and barrel

Educational:
The Idiot
Colony

Jacksons Lane latest based on real-life horrors

THE best theatre educates as well as entertains.

Based on real-life accounts of the incarceration of "moral defectives" in 1940s England, The Idiot Colony by RedCape Theatre is a lacerating example of issue-based theatre with a strong performance element to raise it above the didactic.

Throughout the 1940s and '50s, women who "strayed" – had sex with the "wrong" people etc – were sent off to mental hospitals where they mostly stayed, forgotten, sometimes for decades.

"So, for example, a woman had sex with a black G.I. and that was regarded by some close to her as a moral offence so she was put in an asylum," said director Andrew Dawson. "And, even last year there was a report in the paper of a woman who has been in a home for 40 years after stealing something ridiculous like 50p."

RedCape has focused on three women who pass through the asylum's hair salon. But what could have been a humourless, dry piece of theatre is raised into an award-winning production through physical theatre and music.

"Hairdressers are the only people really who are allowed to touch us," said Andrew. "And we found that the patients revealed far more to them than doctors, perhaps because of that personal contact, offering a little normality. There is a lot going on in the piece, besides a bit of Rick Astley on the soundtrack – which might cause anyone to be locked up!"

● The Idiot Colony runs from next Wednesday to Saturday at Jacksons Lane in Archway Road, Highgate. Tickets cost £12.50 (£10.50 concessions). Shows start at 8pm. For more details and reservations call the box office on 020 8341 4421.

Keats shines bright

Now showing

Bright Star (PG)

Dir: Jane Campion

Starring: Ben Wishaw, Abbie Cornish, Kerry Fox

IN AN X Factor for poets, north London would have a real contender in John Keats.

Schooled in Enfield, brought up in Edmonton, and writing his most famous works in Hampstead, one of our most loved romantic poets would have given the area's newspaper trade plenty of front-page stories, while the female vote would have shot through the roof for a young, sensitive man with a penchant for sensual imagery.

But here ends any kind of bizarre relationship between Keats and Cowell – as the only reason the flag-waver for our dumbed down, hyped-up times is mentioned is as an example of what this tender, slow, but beautifully realised film is not.

Focusing on the period roughly from 1817 to 1821 when Keats died at the age of 25, Jane Campion has written and directed a chamber piece centring on just a few main characters – though the beautiful Hampstead Heath setting, seen through many ravishing aspects and different seasons, almost warrants a mention on the cast list itself.

This period was a time of extraordinary creativity for Keats (Wishaw), producing the best work of his life,

Poetry with perfume: Abbie Cornish shares love in a lavender field while romance blossomed between himself and younger neighbour, Fanny Brawne (Cornish). Her mother (Fox) and Keats' writer friend, Charles Brown (Paul Schneider) tried to keep them apart – with one worried about this penniless poet's intentions, the other about a young girl's – but their intense relationship crystallised as Keats' poetry flew in such passionate responses as Ode To A Nightingale and Bright Star.

The inspiration for the former, with Keats lying on top of an apple tree, is one of a number of sublime images woven by Campion to create a tapestry of visuals and verse. A black funeral outfit set against the white snow; Brawne reading her lover's letters in a glade of lavender; a room full of exquisite butterflies ... are just some of the others. This is complimented by Wishaw and Cornish in particular offering masterclasses in nuanced performance to make this one of the best reasons for not staying in this weekend.

Jonathan Lovett

The Men Who Stare at Goats (15)

A lacklustre adaptation of the superior Jon Ronson book. The stranger-than-fiction bestseller about the secret US army unit devoted to new-age techniques is a missed opportunity.

An Education (12A)

When not doing her Latin homework, 16-year-old Jenny is intoxicated by a glamorous world of cocktails, jazz and an older man in early 1960s' London. Lynn Barber's memoir is transformed into an enjoyable period outing but lacks drama and emotional connection to its characters.

Almost a great animation but, like the central character, it loses its tail and ends up going round in circles. Roald Dahl's fantasy is Americanised but captures the essential strangeness, helped by the voices of George Clooney, Meryl Streep and... Jarvis Cocker!

Couples Retreat (15)

Go skinny dipping with piranhas, invite X Factor's Jedward around for karaoke... do all of these rather than paying to see this tedious anti-comedy about four dull couples on a holiday island.

gannets' restaurant awards

Food for thought: tip us off on your favourite restaurant

IT'S back... with a twist! Due to overwhelming demand, and the insistence of those beautiful broad birds, the Gannet Girls, our prestigious Restaurant of the Year Award returns again.

The most hotly contested accolade in north London, which regularly draws hundreds upon hundreds of nominations, is back to fire debates in Indians and Italians, Chinese and Cantonese, Turkish and Thai restaurants from Wood Green to Waltham Cross, Colindale to Cheshunt.

Last year's winner was the majestic Masala Lounge restaurant in Palmers Green, hotly pursued by two other fine Indian eateries: Spice Villa in Edmonton and Dipali also in Palmers Green. But, thanks to the dominance of Indian restaurants, we have decided to make this year's competition a little more interesting for everyone.

Instead of just the top three nominated restaurants in north London, we are asking for a top nominated restaurant in the Asian category, a top one in the Rest of the World category and the top one in the Pub Restaurant category. (Note, for the sake of argument, Turkish restaurants will be put in the Rest of the World category.) These three will then go forward to the final round and be visited by incognito Gannet Girls, who will decide who is crowned the Gannets' Restaurant of the Year 2009.

Over the next few weeks we will print the above form for you to tell us about your favourite restaurant. Nominations are only valid if they include your name, address and phone number, and no photocopies.

CONDITIONS OF ACCEPTANCE FOR ALL ADVERTISEMENTS

Orders are accepted by the Publishers subject to the Standard Conditions agreed between the Newspaper Society and the Institute of Practitioners in Advertising. Save that:

1. Advertisements are accepted on the conditions that (a) descriptions relating to goods are accurate and in no way contravene the provisions of the Trade Descriptions Act 1968, and the Fair Trading Act 1973, and (b) the copy complies with the British Code of Advertising Practice. Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.

2. Classified Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.

3. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(T)' etc. in the advertisement.

4. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:

(a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
(b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
(c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.

5. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.

6. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertisement will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.

7. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

8. Whilst every effort is made to minimise errors in advertisements, mistakes do sometimes occur. Advertisers or their agents should therefore check their advertisements and inform us of any errors immediately. Responsibility cannot be accepted for more than one incorrect insertion. Typographical or minor changes, which do not affect the value of the advertisement, do not qualify for republication or allowances.

9. All gross advertising rates (except classified line and semi-display) are subject to and include a 0.1% Advertising Standards Board of Finance surcharge, payable by the advertisers to help finance the self-regulatory control system administered by the Advertising Standards Authority.

10. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.

11. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.

12. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.

13. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.

14. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

(1) Should an advertiser be in breach of the agreed terms, the publisher shall be entitled to levy a 10% surcharge on the value of the whole debt in respect of accounts with terms of less than 30 days, and any discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed.

Birthday Memoriams

MARIE LOUISE EVANS
9/11/29 - 9/01/09

In loving memory of a dear Mum, Nan and Great Nanny who died on 9th January.
Today would have been your 80th birthday.

*Life goes on without you,
But things are not the same,
It is hard to hide the heartache,
When someone speaks your name.
We think about you often,
We talk about you too,
We will always have the memories,
But we wish we still had you.*

Loved and remembered always.
From your children Jenny, Shirley, Arthur and Alison and their families XXX

And always will.*

HERO HEURELHO SAVES THE DAY

Top stopper: Gomes sent Spurs back in to the top four with his heroics between the sticks on Saturday

By Lee Husson

HEURELHO GOMES hailed the significance of Tottenham's fortunate win over Sunderland on Saturday as goals from Robbie Keane and Tom Huddlestone saw Harry Redknapp's side return to the top four.

The Brazilian goalkeeper proved to be the match-winner for Spurs against the spirited Black Cats, making a string of fine saves as well as denying Darren Bent from the penalty spot on his return to White Hart Lane.

Gomes had been adjudged to have brought down the former Tottenham striker in the second half, but he beat away his penalty to protect their 1-0 lead courtesy of Keane, and Huddlestone rifled home the second with 20 minutes to go to seal the win.

"Sunderland played very well. They have a very good side and we tried our best to keep them put of our box," the keeper said. "They put us under a lot of pressure but we stuck together."

"It's a great win for us because we lost the last two league games but now we're back to winning ways and back in the top four."

Keane opened the scoring for Spurs against the run of play 12 minutes in when Peter Crouch headed a cross into his path, and although his volley was saved by keeper Craig Gordon, he was able to bundle home at the second attempt.

The home side were fortunate to maintain the lead until the break, with Andy Reid hitting the post with a dipping volley from distance, while Fraizer Campbell was denied by Gomes when clean through.

The second half continued with Sunderland in the ascendancy, and Bent raced on to Reid's through ball before he went sprawling over Gomes' challenge, although replays showed he was already going to ground before contact was made.

But justice arguably prevailed when Gomes kept out his spot-kick, and that proved to be the turning point as Jermain Defoe teed up Huddlestone to smash home off the underside of the bar from the edge of the box soon after.

"The penalty save was a great moment," Gomes added. "It was so important for everyone. We needed this win for the sake of our league position."

Capello calls on Huddlestone and Jenas for Brazil friendly

FABIO CAPELLO has called up four Spurs players into his England squad, with Tom Huddlestone and Jermaine Jenas' shock inclusions alongside Peter Crouch and Jermain Defoe for Saturday's friendly against Brazil.

With several England regulars missing this weekend's clash in Qatar, Capello has made a raft of changes to his squad, handing the Tottenham mid-field duo a chance to stake a claim for a seat on the plane to the World Cup finals in South Africa next summer.

Huddlestone (right) has not featured for the national side since friendlies against Trinidad and Tobago and the USA more than a year ago, while Jenas has not appeared in England colours since the 4-1 World Cup qualifying victory over Croatia last September.

Aaron Lennon would also have been included if fit, meaning Spurs are well represented in the squad.

"It's great for the club to have so many players in the England set-up," said boss Harry Redknapp.

"Tom and JJ have been terrific this season. They are different players, but they have been equally important."

Capello has also called-up former Tottenham striker Darren Bent after his good start to the season with new club Sunderland.
